Sir:

Just wanted you to know our process: Tonight, as you called me, four of us were down in the theater doing a simulation/run-through. We were making sure that the teleprompter text is 100% accurate and also checking to correlate the prompter, big-print, and regular-print text -- including the underlining. After you called, we also inserted the changes you had made.

We plan to do the same thing several more times tomorrow after the morning practice session/last changes -- including of course final run-throughs in the prompter room at the Capitol before the actual address.
